

NLASLPA General Teleconference

President-Elect Report

24 May 2018

Although I have only recently joined the NLASLPA Executive, my experience thus far has been positive and rewarding. I am enjoying my role as President-Elect, and I have already learned so much.

One of my regular duties as President-Elect is sending out the monthly broadcast emails to NLASLPA members. These emails include notifications from the executive and special interest groups and offer exciting continuing education opportunities. I am also the liaison between the Membership committee, and have been in contact with Rayleen Rice to keep the membership list up to date.

At the beginning of May 2018, I had the incredible opportunity to attend the Speech-Language and Audiology Canada (SAC) Conference in Edmonton, Alberta with NLASLPA President, Courtney Gordon. During the conference, we were able to network with other professionals from across the country, and attend a variety of education sessions.

Prior to commencing my role as President-Elect in April 2018, Christina Hodder attended monthly teleconference meetings with the Pan-Canadian Alliance (PCA). I attended my first PCA meeting at the SAC Conference in Edmonton.

I am looking forward to continuing my role as President-Elect, and learning how to best serve the membership in my upcoming role as President next year.

Respectfully submitted,

Jeanie Morry
NLASLPA President-Elect
